Cal Poly summer quarter may be axed

BY JOE STEIN
Daily Staff Writer

There may be no summer quarter at Cal Poly in 1979 if administration fears are realized.

The Cal Poly administration has amended statistics in a 17-page draft to convince the CSUC Board of Trustees, the State Department of Finance, the State Legislature and the Governor not to consider eliminating summer quarter as they make budget cuts for the 1979-1980 fiscal year.

CSUC Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke's staff in Long Beach recently sent its budget for the 19-campus system to the CSUC Board of Trustees for review on October 23, said Ed Macias, assistant Vice Chancellor for Business Affairs. Macias would not elaborate on the Chancellor's budget, but Craig Jones, the CSUC Legislative advocate, estimates the budget at $753 million.

The trustees should include summer quarter at Cal Poly when making policy decisions on the budget, Poly President Robert Kennedy said. Kennedy said the CSUC Council of Presidents system will see the Chancellor's budget on October 17 and 18.

After the Board of Trustees has reviewed the budget, said Kennedy, the Chancellor's staff will then make any necessary changes to conform with the Board's action.

The Chancellor's staff, said Kennedy, will then send its revised budget to the state Finance Department. There in November and December, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. will decide whether or not the summer program for each or all of the four campuses that have them: Cal Poly campuses at San Luis Obispo and Pomona and Cal State campuses at Los Angeles and Hayward.

The governor will propose his budget for all state agencies to the legislature on January 1, 1979. Between then and the end of the 1978-79 fiscal year on June 30, 1979 the legislature must send its state budget to the governor, said Kennedy.

The governor may then veto the whole budget or any item in the budget.

Jane Robertson, the Student Presidents' Association's liaison with the Chancellor's office, said the Finance Department would not cancel summer quarter at Cal Poly alone. "They would do all four."

The department is considering at least five options in making budget cuts: Drop summer quarter from the four CSUC campuses that have them.

See if cuts can be made in admissions and records department personnel.

Consider laying off some custodians.

Put all 19 campuses on a semester system.

Charge tuition. Robertson said the department will likely choose the first option. "They are leaning toward that direction."

However the finance department may consider any of all of these options, said Jim Landreth, Cal Poly's Director of Business Affairs.

Landreth said it is unlikely tuition would be charged for summer alone.

Malcolm Wilson, Poly's Associated Dean of Graduate Students, said tuition, at least for the summer quarter, could be $25 per unit or more as a result of Poly's heavy laboratory curriculums.

Barton Olsen, Poly history professor and secretary of the statewide Academic Senate said the state legislature will probably not impose tuition for next year, but added without tuition, "there's no way the level of (higher) education can be sustained."

Landreth estimated a net budget cut of $2.4 million or a drop of 3.27 percent would result if summer quarter at Poly were cancelled. Full time equivalent student enrollment, said Landreth, would drop by 8.68 percent. The administration expects 5,300 students to attend Poly next summer.

Landreth estimated cancellation of Cal Poly summer quarter would result in $1.2 million in lost rent and business revenues in San Luis Obispo county.

According to Howard Gisham of the State Employment Development Department, however, a lack of summer school students in the county would probably not result in a large loss of trade revenue.

The owners also proclaim it is one of the safest parks.

Skateboarders make waves at new park

BY JEFF CHAMBERLAIN
Daily Staff Writer

When most people talk about skateboarding, the dangers of skinned knees and broken bones soon become topics. One man disagrees.

"Skateboarding? No, it's not a dangerous sport in a controlled environment. People don't seem to realize it, but bicycling has the highest accident rate of any sport around." So says Jerry Jones, co-owner of the Solid Wave skateboard park in Arroyo Grande.

The Solid Wave, which opened in late March of this year, is currently the only skatepark in the county. Located just south of Pismo Beach in Arroyo Grande, the 35,000 square foot park offers the skating enthusiast a wide variety of bowls, half-pipes, pools, and clover-leaves.

After the 60-day construction period in which Jones and partner Dave Malis did much of the building themselves, attendance has been fairly steady. The three-acre facility has hosted local as well as national Pro-Am contests, and was featured in a four-page article in the Wide World of Skateboarding magazine.

"Yeah, it's the best place around here to ride," says John Parmenter, 16, of Cayucos. Parmenter, a regular at the park and consistent contest winner, rides for the Surf'n Wear team out of San Luis Obispo.

Parmenter, who himself has never suffered any broken bones while skating, says he has seen people fracture arms and ankles at the Solid Wave.

"I'd say we're averaging about three broken bones a month here," says Jones, "which isn't too bad when you consider that the other skateparks are averaging around two a day."

However, whatever the dangers or risks, an average day at the park will find a multitude of avid skaters attempting the near-impossible. Reasons may vary, but the high level of enthusiasm remains the same.

Whatever the motivation, the Solid Wave seems to be making a hit with Central Coast skaters. Jones and Malis, who have access to an additional 30 adjacent acres, have plans for enlarging their operation.

"We're going to change a few things," says Jones. "In the skatepark itself, we're going to make the half-pipe into a full pipe with the addition of a plexiglass rod, and we're going to enlarge the bowl. It'll have more vertical when we're through."

Other plans in the offing are the addition of a larger arcade, a disco, and eight enclosed stereo-equipped hot tubs. To cool off in will be three tubular water slides. Jones also plans to incorporate a Malibu Grand Prix road racing concession into the Solid Wave.

Newspaper settles suit

BY JACK SCHEMBER
Asst. News Editor

By accepting a letter-to-the-editor submitted by the Church of Scientology, Sacramento State University's student newspaper Monday reached a final out-of-court settlement for libel suit with the church that stemmed back four years.

The student newspaper, The State Hornet, previously refused to accept a settlement of a $500,000 libel suit which would require publication of an article submitted by the Church of Scientology.

The suit against the Hornet stems from a three-part series published by the newspaper in 1974 by a reporter who had joined the church and later withdrew after spending $4,325 on a Scientology self-improvement program. In the article, the reporter called Scientology's program "a ripoff."

Attorneys for the Associated Students, Inc., which funds the Hornet, and the Church of Scientology reached a first out-of-court settlement requiring the newspaper to print one of three articles submitted by the church.

But the editors of the Hornet, taking sides with the First Amendment, refused to print the article submitted by the church calling it a "piece of propaganda" and "one-sided" said Rita Hughes, associate editor.

Instead of printing the article, the editors wrote an editorial stating that ARI tried to force them to print the settlement.

Kevin Stevens, leader of Sacramento State's student senate, said ARI funds the newspaper and therefore has the right to dictate what goes in it.

But Brian Blomster, editor of the State Hornet, said the newspaper, "like any other newspaper, is entitled to all guarantees of the First Amendment. No person or body of people may select what goes into or stays out of this newspaper."

During their meeting Monday, representatives of the Hornet and the Church of Scientology agreed on the following settlement: the Hornet will print a letter to the editor submitted by the church. The Hornet will then write an editorial about their odds with the ARI and their stand behind the First Amendment.

Dennis McKenna, director of public affairs for the Church of Scientology in Sacramento, said he will write the letter to the editor of the Hornet. He said in the letter he will commend the editors for the stand they took on the First Amendment and also clarify the position of the church.

Instructor sues Poly

A Cal Poly instructor is suing four university administrators for allegedly discriminating his part-time job as a naval architecture expert for the federal Department of Justice.

David R. Ravener of Pismo Beach, an architecture instructor, is asking $192,775 in damages. He alleges that the campus officials, over the past two years, made false accusations about his professional competency and character to the Justice Department which cost him $2,775 in fees for services already rendered to the department.

The defendants in the case are Paul R. Noel, school of architecture director, George J. Haselein, School of Architecture Dean, Poly President Robert Kennedy and Donald L. Shelton, personnel relations director.

The suit also seeks $50,000 in lost business from the Justice Department and $100,000 in punitive damages.

Editorial/Opinion

Andrews and the future

We were happy to see Dale Andrews appointed acting president by Chancellor Glen Dumke this week.

The announcement came as no surprise to us. President Robert Kennedy speculated last week that it would either be Andrews or Vice President of Academic Affairs Hazel Jones. "That was," said Kennedy, "what vice presidents were for — to take over in case the president were to leave."

Andrews came to Cal Poly in 1950 and has a considerable working knowledge of what goes into making Cal Poly move. And while we feel that an acting president should not make waves in such a short term, we do believe that should pressing matters arise, Andrews could handle it.

There are several policies we believe must be reevaluated. Among them, requiring senior projects before graduation needs to be looked at. Even the alcohol stand will eventually have to be reassessed.

It will probably be a long time before a permanent president is selected. Soon, everybody will get their mitts on the selection process and may have actually semi-agreed on making some sort of recommendation to Dumke.

Presently, we have no particular preference as to whom would receive a permanent appointment. We do believe, however, the new president should be a young man or woman, one who can sustain the rigors looming in the shadows of the presidency.

In the coming months, we wish Dale Andrews luck and hope he continues to make the same kind of contribution he has made in the past.

We would also warn those involved in the selection process that more is at stake than they might think. Placing a university president for California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo, is more than just a job and responsibility. No doubt it will at least minimally affect every student, staff and administrator for years to come.

Q. The Navy Officer Qualification Test (NQOT) is a piece of cake, right?

A. Not necessarily.

If you're majoring in engineering or another technical area, we would expect you to do better on the test than an Inner Mongolia Cultural Arts major, but you won't hear us telling anyone that the test is easy. The NQOT is an aptitude exam dealing with number and letter comparison, instrument interpretation, word analogy, practical judgement, mathematical reasoning, and mechanical comprehension involving gears, levers, pulleys, fluids, etc. For those interested in an aviation program, there is an extra section dealing with aircraft orientation.

The Navy Information Team will be administering the test in the Agriculture Building, Room 241, on Wednesday, October 11, at 12:30 PM and at 6:00 PM and in the Architecture Building, Room 224 on Thursday, October 12, at 9:00 AM.

Tests will be scored immediately and an Officer will be available to discuss your results and the various programs you may want to consider.

Taking the exam in no way obligates you to the Navy, but it just might tell you something about yourself. Come in and give it a shot — you might even pass!

Proposition 6: A bad joke

There is a joke about an American in Czechoslovakia who asks a Czech, "Do you consider the Russians your friends or your brothers?"

The Czech replies, "Brothers, of course. You can choose your friends."

If Proposition 6 on the November ballot passes some people in this state will have to start being careful about who they associate with. People in the education business could be dismissed from their jobs if they are suspected of being involved with gay rights.

Basically, Proposition 6

seeks to cancel the rights of homosexual teachers. They could be fired from their jobs solely because they are gay. But that's only the beginning. Even teachers who advocate homosexual rights can also be fired. In other words, teachers can lose their jobs because of the beliefs they hold.

The teacher doesn't have to do anything wrong in the classroom. He or she may have never laid a finger on a student or spoken of any of their beliefs in a classroom. But if the word "queer" is so much as whispered, a lifetime's work in education could go down the tubes.

Added to these indignities is the fact the author of the proposition, State Senator John Briggs, can't even speak on it without trapping himself in a number of contradictions, inconsistencies and half-truths. In an excellent interview with the Los Angeles Times, which appeared October 6, the senator proved that in his case, ignorance is strength.

Briggs feels his proposition is entirely fair and necessary. However, he does not believe heterosexual teachers should be subject to the same type of discrimination.

And no teacher should be out of a job unless his or her behavior in the classroom warrants it. Punishment should not precede the crime. What is at stake is not the rights of gays or teachers, but all our rights.

Summer quarter

biggest thing," he said. Landlords operating student housing complexes in San Luis Obispo will have two choices if there is no summer quarter next year, said Walt Lambert, Poly's off-campus housing director. He said students may be required by their managers to sign 12-month contracts, but he added, "right now we have many people with summer-only listings."

Poly officials, in the administration's 17-page report, give four main reasons for retaining summer quarter.

- 1) There is a large student demand for it. According to an administration survey of 500 students taken in August, 62.2 percent said they plan to attend summer quarters in the future.
- 2) There is a shortage of facilities. The administration says Poly is "impacted," meaning the campus is filled to capacity with students.
- 3) Poly's programs are found at few other campuses in the system, and nine degree programs are unique to Poly.
- 4) Summer quarter is "cost effective," meaning all benefits of a summer quarter at least equal its cost.

The report states that two programs would be "particularly handicapped" without summer quarter: The Master of Business Administration program, which is a four-quarter program beginning in summer, and the Agricultural Enterprise Program which allowed 109 students last summer to become involved in actual Agri-business ventures.

The administration's survey states 11.8 percent of those questioned would enroll in Cal Poly Summer Session, which is not a state-supported quarter, at $25 or more per unit. The poll showed 23.4 percent would attend another university during the summer, and 10.8 percent would transfer to another university.

It added 54.4 percent would not go to summer quarters and would instead continue at Poly during the rest of the year. The survey stated 52.8 percent would find summer jobs and 10 percent would vacation during the summer.

The administration said 87 percent of students last summer quarter were continuing students from spring quarter. If summer quarter was dropped, about 1,300 prospective full-time equivalent students would have to be turned down when they apply for fall quarter 1979.

"Nearly half of the students attending summer quarter reported that they utilize summer quarter as a vehicle for shortening their completion time, thus freeing scarce state resources and crowded facilities for new students," the draft states. "The elimination of summer quarter would have a severe impact on the ability of the University to fulfill its responsibility of providing specialized education programs for the State."

Senate pushes for action on tax bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate pushed toward final action Tuesday on a tax cut bill that includes reductions for virtually all individuals, with most benefits tilted toward those with incomes under $50,000 a year.

At $30 billion, the bill was bloated far above the levels recommended by the House and the Carter administration. In addition to the reduction for individuals, the measure contains major tax cuts for investors and businesses.

By a 73-18 vote the Senate added to the bill an expanded tax break for disabled persons and those 55 and older who sell their principal home and don't buy a new one costing at least as much. Once in a lifetime they could keep tax-free a profit of up to $100,000 on such a sale.

That amendment would eliminate the relief voted by the Finance Committee for all persons who sell their homes. The committee plan would have exempted from taxes the profit from the first $50,000 of selling price regardless of the age of the seller — and a proportionate amount on more expensive homes.

Water price to double

FRESNO (AP) — Federal water rates for farmers in the sprawling Westlands Water District here will nearly double in 1979 and will be paid under protest, a water district official said Tuesday.

However, Jim Ganulin, general counsel, said the district supports congressional approval of the contract because "we can't afford to go without water for a year."

Westlands directors think the new price of $13.50 per acre foot is too high, Ganulin said. A district-ordered study showed a fair price for the water was closer to $9 per acre foot, he said.

Ganulin said the district will continue to negotiate with the federal government on water price beyond the 1979 agreement. However, if a solution the district thinks is fair cannot be reached, court action may be taken, he said.

Farmers paid $7.50 per acre foot from 1963 to 1978 when they paid $14.29 under protest pending negotiation of the new one-year agreement with the Interior Department's Bureau of Reclamation, said Rep. George Miller, D-Marine, Monday.

Senate to discuss 8

The student senate tonight at 7 o'clock in UU Room 220 will discuss a resolution against proposition 8. Be it resolved that we oppose any legislative measures which would restrict the Constitutional Rights of any individual and that we oppose Proposition 8 in that if passed it would severely limit the Constitutional Rights of Free Speech and Expression of a number of individuals of the State of California, said Brian D. Jarvis, representative of the School of Human Development and Education.

Ray to wed in jail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A black minister once associated with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. says he will perform the prison marriage ceremony of James Earl Ray, convicted assassin of the civil rights leader.

The Rev. James Lawson said Monday that the marriage of Ray to Anna Sandhu, a 32-year-old freelance artist, would take place either Thursday or Friday at the Brushy Mountain Penitentiary in Tennessee, where Ray is serving a 99-year term.

"The warden has approved. The day will be either Thursday or Friday," said Lawson, pastor of Holman United Methodist Church in Los Angeles. "Her family will be there but there will be no press."

Lawson said he and other black leaders have come to have doubts about whether Ray was King's assassin.

"But clearly, even if James Earl Ray were the killer beyond the shadow of a doubt and Dr. King could return to perform the marriage, he would do it," the minister said.

"Anyone who couldn't understand that didn't know Martin Luther King. For him, love served as the basis for community and justice."

The little things make the series great

NEW YORK (AP) — There has to be a lot of majesty in 73 years of World Series baseball. Here are some facts by legendary men such as Babe Ruth, Pepper Martin, Yogi Berra and Bob Gibson — but historian Joe Reichler finds himself remembering the little things.

"Like 1961," Reichler recalled, "the series between the Yankees and Cincinnati Reds. It was the year of the Yankees' M&M boys, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris — 115 home runs between them."

"Mantle was suffering from osteomyelitis inflammation of the bone marrow and, unrelated to that, he had an ugly abscess on his back — a hole an inch thick, oozing puss and blood."

Few were aware of it. Mickey insisted on playing and telling no one. The Yankees won in five games.

"I don't think I'll ever forget the bedlam that followed the Mets' victory over the Baltimore Orioles in 1969 — it was David knocking off Goliath," Reichler added. "The Orioles were one of the great teams of all time."

"And the fan madness in Pittsburgh in 1960 when Bill Mazeroski of the Pirates hit that ninth-inning home run that beat the Yankees in the seventh game 10 — 9. People went wild. They stormed the downtown area. It was almost dangerous to be on the streets."

Reichler, a former baseball writer for The Associated Press and since 1955 an aide to the baseball commissioner, is editor of "The World Series — a 75th Anniversary," a richly illustrated, 282-page volume resurrecting the drama, triumphs and tragedies of America's autumn spectacle. The booky, graying New Yorker lived a good part of it, having seen every Series since 1943. The rest has been gathered and stored in a lifetime of baseball research as reporter, author, biographer.

Reichler says the greatest single World Series performer, without a doubt, was Babe Ruth.

"To most people, he was simply a home run hitter. At one time he held more than two dozen World Series marks. Almost half of them are still unbroken.

Give QUME The first Degree*
(*Your BS — of course)

QUME deserves your consideration for career development — and professional satisfaction...

Located in the SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA, QUME is a fast growing, dominant Company that has developed, manufactures and markets the non-captive portion of the Word Processing Market for PRINTERS.

From an auspicious beginning in 1974, QUME has established and maintains a technological lead in our industry. Approximately 75% of the non-captive Printer Market is QUME's... and our sales in 1978 — just 5 years after our beginning — should exceed $80 million.

In early 1979, we will move into our ultra-modern facilities in San Jose — presenting you an unparalleled environment and technology to perfect and expand our product line.

QUME is autonomous, profitable and well managed. Our benefits are outstanding. If you have a BSME or a BSET or a BSEE with a CS minor, are ambitious, technically knowledgeable and aspire to advance your professionalism rapidly — with a respected innovator in the Computer Peripheral Industry... QUME is the place for you to be!
